The Cahaba Baptist Association

To her Sister Associations with whom she corresponds:

DEAR BRETHREN: We avail ourselves of this occasion to renew to you the assurances of our Christian love and undiminished interest in your welfare. During the past year many of our churches have enjoyed precious seasons of revivals; others have received, to a less extent, tokens of the Divine favor, while some complain of coldness in the Master's service. May we not all take the admonition of the Apostle, "it is high time to awake-out of sleep," and be more engaged in the great work confided to us.

May the blessings of God, dear brethren, ever attend you.

A. G. McCRAW, Moderator.

[A] REPORT ON FOREIGN MISSIONS.

The Committee on Foreign Missions beg leave to Report:

In reviewing the past, we are led to believe that our people never felt a more deep interest in the spread of the Redeemer's Kingdom in foreign lands, and the salvation of men, than they now do. Their earnest efforts and liberal contributions are so many evidences of this. Many have contributed to send the Gospel to the heathen this year that never did before. If the feelings of all who profess the religion of Christ could be enlisted in the great work of saving souls, then would the Church look forth as the morning, fair as the moon, clear as the sun, and terrible as an army with banners. Then would the millions of China and Africa and the islands of the sea hear the Gospel.

From the last report of the Foreign Mission Board we learn there has been paid into the treasury, from the 1st of April, 1858 to the 1st of April, 1859, $39,824 37, being an increase of $5,521 82 on the receipts of the previous year.

The last intelligence from our Missionaries in China was encouraging. One writes, the Gospel is taking root in China, and must ultimately yield an abundant harvest.

The Letters from our Missionaries in Liberia show there have been several revivals during this year, and a number of baptisms.

Recently, two Missionaries have been appointed by the Foreign Mission Board: Brethren C. H. Fay and J. G. Shilling.

Our duty to those who are destitute of the Gospel is plainly taught us in God's Word; it is to preach it to them. But we need men to do it. Should we not then pray the Lord of the harvest to raise up men for that purpose? Your committee recommend to this body that the last week in next July be spent in Missionary meetings.

Respectfully submitted,

S. A. CREATH, Chairman.

[B] REPORT ON DOMESTIC MISSIONS.

There is no matter of more vital interest to the population of America than the subject of Domestic Missions. Indeed, it has already aroused the regards of European philanthropists and christians. The Rev. J. A. James, of England, in an address to the American citizens then in that country, speaks to them in terms of startling moment, as he refers to the elements of our society, and the dangers to which we are exposed. Thousands of the inhabitants of the Old World are annually flocking to our shores, and incorporating themselves into the texture of Western life. Shall we be indifferent to our own wants and necessities, when others far away beyond the blue ocean cannot fail to have their sympathies awakened, and their hearts moved with tender concern for our future history? No, my brethren; the great mind of American christians is at work, and they will not be content till every house shall have an altar erected to the One True God, and one people shall acknowledge in their daily life the principles of eternal truth. It is to accomplish this that your Board of Domestic Missions has been organized through the intelligence and christian liberality of Southern Baptists. They are endeavoring to plant the standard of Bible doctrine, and practice upon every hill-top and through every valley from the Gulf of Mexico to Kansas, and from the shores of the Atlantic to the broad Pacific. How far they have done this you can learn from the reports of the Board of the Southern Baptist Convention. Their work has been limited only by the amount of your liberality and those associated with you throughout this vast Southern and South-Western field. It remains for you and others to say whether this work may be expanded to meet the present and daily increasing demands of the times. Would you win souls to God, and add fresh laurels to the crown of your Saviour's glory? then, my beloved brethren in Christ, come up to this work with a new purpose, and bring your offerings to the altar of your country and your God. Are you not able to do this? Should you not do this? Does not your interest require it? Has not the cry of Macedonia reached your ears? Can you meet the full measure of your responsibilities and be indifferent to the complete evangelization of these States and Territories? We have been gratified to see what is being done by our District Associations, in supplying a preached gospel to the people, and especially to the poor and destitute. The blacks upon our plantations, the Germans in our towns and cities, the Chinese of California,—all are receiving attention from our various organizations, and particularly from the Board specially intrusted with this mission. But we must not extend this report, already, perhaps, too long, and will close with an extract from the Report of the Board in Marion to the Convention, showing the number of laborers in service during the year ending April 1st, 1859, and the practical results of those labors:

“During the last year 104 Missionaries and agents have been under commission of the Board; a few of whom have labored only a portion of the year. We have Missionaries in every Southern and South-Western State, in the Indian Territory and California. To the above number add 35 among the Indians, and we have 139 in the entire field. We trust the time will soon come when the resources of the Board will enable them to employ twice the present number. The harvest is yet large and the laborers few.

PRACTICAL RESULTS.

All the actual services rendered by a faithful Missionary cannot be recorded with pen and ink. Nor is it our custom, in these annual reports, to give in detail all that the Missionaries record and submit to the Board. The following summary contains the principal items contained in the reports for the last year, so far as they have come to hand: Churches and stations supplied, 533; discourses delivered, 11015; prayer meetings, 3020; baptisms, 1677; received by letter, 718; conversions in connection with the labors of the Missionaries, but not baptized by them, 766; Sabbath Schools, 114; teachers, 601; pupils, 5570; teachers converted, 4; pupils converted, 202; pastoral visits, 10,391; churches constituted, 26; ministers ordained, 24; deacons ordained, 43; young men connected with mission churches, preparing for the ministry, 58; meeting-houses commenced during the year, 28; meeting-houses finished, 15. In the performance of these labors 75,607 miles have been traveled.”

Respectfully submitted,

M. T. SUMNER.

[D] REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION OF THE NEGROES.

No class of persons have stronger claims upon our christian sympathies than our negroes; and when our attention is directed to the subject, we cannot fail to perceive the importance of decided and well-directed efforts for their evangelization. No true-hearted Southern christian has ever denied this; and the only question before us is, how can we best perform this solemn duty? It is, indeed, a difficult question to answer; yet it is one which presses upon every christian slave owner with a force and solemnity which none but himself can realize. It is a question which must be met. Fidelity to our own Master—fidelity to ourselves and to the souls of our slaves, demand this at our hands. Perhaps no plan could be devised which would be absolutely free from difficulty. A plan which might be found to work well in one place, would be wholly inoperative in another. All the plans which have hitherto been adopted, and which have been wisely and energetically pursued, have resulted in good to the negroes; for, wherever the Gospel has been brought in contact with the hearts and consciences of men, its tendency has been to meliorate their condition and make them better in all the relationship of life.

All this is true; but our report is addressed to the christian masters connected with the Baptist Churches of the Cahaba Association. The question is, how can they labor most effectually for the moral cultivation of the "slaves born in their house and bought with their money?" In answering this question we remark, that God observes and requires His people to observe some connection between the means and ends to be attained. They shall reap only as they sow. If they desire the conversion to God of their servants—the nurses of their infancy and the playmates of their boyhood—they must deny themselves and labor for that specific object. God has, by a most beautiful and gracious arrangement, ordained that christian masters themselves shall be the instruments of saving those who are thus absolutely dependent upon them. By thus throwing upon the masters the responsibility to labor and pray and care for the salvation of their servants, He affords them the opportunity of exercising some of the choicest graces of the christian character. These are duties which are binding upon the christian master, and which he must perform alone, each one for himself, even though all other men should stand aloof. Without waiting for the stimulous of any combined effort, he must go to work with the single object of doing all the good to his negroes which is in his power. He must look on his servants and say—"This is one of my first duties, and here will I begin my share in the great work of converting the world to God. The slaves and their children (next to my own family) demand my first attention, because God has brought their case more immediately before my conscience and, in His providence, has placed them most directly under my influence. If I do not allow my light to shine before these my slaves and dependents, so as to guide them to Heaven, how can I be a light to my own family, to my neighbor, and to the world? If I am unfaithful in that which is least, how can I be faithful in that which is much?"

Here, then, is what we need: Individual effort directed to the attainment of direct and specific ends. And who does not see the beauty and fitness of this plan of operation? And, independent of all their results, who does not perceive the incalculable benefit which it confers upon the master? Let us, then, brethren, take God at his word. Let us depend less upon combined efforts and betake us to individual labor, and we shall not lose our reward. The righteous shall shine as the firmament, but those who turn others to righteousness shall shine as the stars in the firmament, forever.

Respectfully submitted,

H. TALBIRD, Chairman.

D] REPORT ON SABBATH SCHOOLS.

Your committee, having so short a time in which to write a report, (having been appointed since the Association convened,) cannot be expected to present a report which will embody such facts in connection with the Sabbath School cause within the bounds of the Cahaba Association, as to interest the Association, or stimulate us to greater zeal and activity in pushing forward this work, a work which should be near the heart of every man and woman who is a lover of the meek and lowly Jesus. Indeed, if your committee are to judge of the interest felt on this subject by the reports that have come up from the churches, to the Association, through the letters, they would readily conclude that there were but few facts of an interesting character that could be presented, and that the Sabbath School cause within the bounds of the Association, with a few honorable exceptions, was a dead letter. We are accustomed to meet year after year at the Association, and hear it reported, that the cause of Sabbath Schools is a glorious and blessed cause; that the Sabbath School is the nursery of the Church; the stepping-stone into the kingdom of Christ on earth; and the very place, of all others, where the good seed is most likely to take root, grow up and bring forth fruit to the honor and glory of God; and yet, with all these reports made, and all the speeches which have been delivered, since the subject of Sabbath Schools was first agitated in the Association, we have a practical demonstration before us of the truth that our actions do not conform to our professions; that our faith is dead. The truth of the position here assumed is clearly demonstrated by the fact, that out of some thirty five churches represented in this Association, only six or eight (so far as your committee are informed) keep up Sabbath Schools; and some of these are poorly sustained. Brethren! these things ought not to be. God has called us into His vineyard to labor for the promotion of His glory and the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom on earth. He has placed us here as stewards, and will require at our hands a strict account of our stewardship, and will, in the end, count us as unfaithful stewards if we fold our arms and sleep at our post, whilst our children and our neighbors around us are perishing for the bread of life. The Sabbath School cause is, indeed, a glorious and blessed cause, and one which should call forth the energies of our hearts and the labor of our hands; but how few seem to realize the truth so as to cause them to rally around its standard or battle, in its defense. The Sabbath School is, indeed, the nursery of the Church, where the young scions may be planted, fitted and trained for the vineyard of the Lord; but how small the number who seem willing to water, to nourish and cultivate the tender plants so as to fit them for this vineyard? And while we constantly pray, Thy Kingdom come, we seem not to realize the fact that it is our business to labor and strive to bring to pass that for which we pray. We forget the great truth, that our professions and our prayers, without a corresponding effort in our lives, are as sounding brass and a tinkling symbol; that our faith without our works is inoperative, therefore dead; and that while we are thus folding our arms and crying, peace to our souls, our children are traveling the broad road that leads to death, and will, ere long, take up their abode in the regions of the damned, unless arrested by the Spirit of God and brought to Christ by and through the instrumentality of some one else.

And now the question arises, shall we continue to live at this poor dying rate, with our love so cold, so faint to Him who gave His life a ransom for us, that we might have a home in Heaven? Will not the Churches in the Cahaba Association be persuaded to arouse themselves, to buckle on their armor a-fresh, and battle in defence of the cause of Sabbath Schools, until every Church in the Association shall have its Sabbath School, and every child and adult shall be taught the Word of God and brought to a knowledge of the truth as it is in Jesus? Brethren, if the Lord be God, let us serve Him; but if he be Baal, then let us serve him. Whatsoever our hands find to do, let us do it with all our might; remembering, that it is not by might, nor by power, but by the Spirit of the Lord, that we can succeed in our efforts. Let us double our diligence, and labor assiduously in this field of christian usefulness; and when life's toilsome journey is about to close, we will be enabled to look back on a life well spent, die in full assurance of a blessed immortality beyond the grave, and, together with our children, enjoy a seat at God's right hand in Heaven. That God may turn every curse and idol out of the hearts of His people, and reign without a rival there; and that the love of the world, its gold, its honors, its pleasures and allurements, may give place to an earnest desire and a corresponding effort for the promotion of Sabbath Schools, and the various benevolent operations of the day, is the sincere prayer of your committee.

Resolved, That pastors and deacons of the churches be requested to encourage the Sabbath Schools now in existence, and to organize them where they do not exist, whenever practicable; also, that our brethren, in their visits to the churches during the week in July set apart for Missionary meetings; be requested to give special attention to this subject.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

[C.] REPORT ON INDIAN MISSIONS.

No mission, in which Southern Baptists are engaged, has appealed more earnestly or with better success to the sympathies of God's people than that connected with the Indian tribes. The love of the red man for his native soil, his reluctance to leave the ashes of his dead, his forced emigration to a land that he knew not, the savage chivalry of his nature; all invest his history with romantic interest, and appeal to the noblest feelings of humanity for the amelioration of his character. The Gospel is the only remedy for a fallen nature, the only civilizer that can raise from the rude barbarism into which sin has plunged the world, to the highest degree of refinement of which the mind is susceptible in the present life. Moved with pity for their hard lot, and by that expansive benevolence that is the soul of the Gospel, christian men have sought to win to Christ these wild children of the forest, and to guide their feet from the bloody war-path of their fathers into the peaceful walks of christianity. The Gospel has been borne to them, schools have been established for their children, and the arts of civilization have been introduced. These blessings are more and more appreciated, the Gospel is winning its way among them, and wherever its influence is owned, its effects are decided. A good degree of success has attended the efforts which have been made in their behalf. The Board of Domestic and Indian Missions of the Southern Baptist Convention, as we learn from their last report, have in commission 25 Missionaries, not including their score of white missionaries. These supply about 135 churches and out-stations, who reported for the year 1859,—1857 sermons preached, 611 prayer-meetings attended, 2 ministers and 10 deacons ordained. 355 converts baptized, 5 churches constituted, 5 meeting-houses built, 4 sabbath schools, 13 teachers and 117 pupils. The work of translating accurately the Scriptures into their own languages has been commenced, and is progressing as rapidly as circumstances will allow. In view of what has been accomplished, it becomes us to thank God and take courage.

Your committee suggest the following resolution:

Resolved, That we will sustain our Missions and our Missionaries among the Indians, by our sympathies, our prayers and our substance, as God shall bless us with the means of doing this work.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. H. McINTOSH, Chairman.

[E] REPORT ON THE BIBLE AND COLPOR-
TEUR CAUSE.

God's mercy is conspicuously displayed in His Word. We are sinful, prone to evil, ignorant, and liable to death. While in this situation, God reveals Himself to us as a teacher—as a sacrifice, and presents to us the means by which we may come to Him and obtain everlasting life. That every family should be in possession of this revelation seems to be too obvious to require either argument or illustration.

Our duty is plain before us. We must put in requisition the most efficient means by which the Messenger from Heaven shall come, with its glad tidings to cheer every family, to direct every wanderer, to make peace with every rebel, and to light up the countenance of despair with the gleam of hope.

A collateral object of great importance, is the circulation of intellectual, moral and religious books. Many of our periodicals are either slanderous or pethy. Many of our books are extravagant and unnatural. Many are corrupting and immoral. We cannot persuade—we ought not to persuade our children and our neighbors not to read. We must substitute for this puerile, this corrupting literature, better periodicals and better books. By offering palatable, healthy and invigorating viands, we may persuade men to abandon weakening and poisonous food.

Our depositories, though eminently useful in their sphere, do not reach the destitute and remote parts of our country, and still less do they reach the heathen world.

Fortunately we need not theorize upon this subject. The Colporteur system has proved itself to be simple, cheap and eminently successful. We must, then, follow the example of other States and other organizations in employing zealous and industrious men to carry the Bible and other books to the destitute, to the ignorant and the reading world, until all shall know the Lord, from the least to the greatest.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

[7] MINUTES OF THE BIBLE AND COLPORTEUR SOCIETY OF THE CAHABA ASSOCIATION.

The Bible and Corporteur Society of the Cahaba Association held its Fourth Annual Meeting in connection with the Association, and was called to order by Rev. L. L. Fox, the President. The Society was opened with singing, and Bro. J. B. Variden led in prayer.

The first business in order being the election of officers, on motion, it was

Resolved, That the officers be elected by nomination.

The old officers being put in nomination, received the unanimous vote of the Society, and were declared duly elected for the ensuing year. The Reports of the Secretary and Treasurer were then presented, read and adopted. An opportunity was given for persons to become annual members of the Society, when a number came forward and were enrolled as annual members. The following resolution was then offered by Bro. A. G. McCraw :

Resolved, That this Society proceed to raise means to support a Colporteur and Sabbath School Agent, to travel within the bounds of the Cahaba Association the ensuing year.

Pending the adoption of this resolution, the Society was addressed by A. M. Poindexter, W. Wilkes, A. G. McCraw and — Baily.

The Society having failed to raise an adequate amount to carry into effect the resolution, it was adopted; and J. G. Hudson and W. Wilkes were appointed a committee to solicit funds for this object, and report at the call of the President. The Society then adjourned until the call of the President. Collection in cash, $29 65; In conditional pledges, $40.

REPORT ON EDUCATION.

That the public mind is waking up to the importance of Education, none can deny; and that the minds of our own denomination are becoming generally interested in the subject, is a pleasing fact.

The increasing patronage which our State Institutions—the Howard and the Judson—are receiving, is a proof of this. Howard College, under the effective supervision of Dr. Talbud, and its able Faculty of teachers, has been for some years enjoying increasing prosperity.

The munificent liberality of Bro. Jesse Brown, in endowing a Theological Professorship, is also encouraging. The appointment of Bro. Toby to this Chair, we deem judicious and pleasing. The unprecedented number of Theological students, their piety and promise for ability and usefulness, should call forth the devout gratitude of our whole people.

The encouraging prospects of the agent, Bro. Barton, in perfecting the endowment, evinces the deep interest felt by the denomination, throughout the State, in behalf of the College. In short, with the united efforts and consant regard of our brethren, the permanency and success of the Howard College is a fixed fact.

The Judson Institution, also, still continues to enjoy its usual prosperity. And we feel confident in the hope that it cannot suffer in the hands of its new Principal, Mr. N. K. Davis.

Your committee have to express their pleasure in the fact, that, in both of these Institution, moral and religious as well as mental culture, has always been regarded and attended to with vigilance, because of the deep interest of the Faculties in the welfare of the pupils: with prudence, because of the care of the Faculties to keep out all undue influences which might excite party zeal or sectarian enthusiasm.

Your committee are of opinion that these Institutions have an increasing demand upon the confidence and patronage of the whole denomination in the State.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. WILKES, Chairman.

[H] REPORT ON TEMPERANCE.

Temperance, in a general sense, means moderation,—particularly habitual moderation in all laudable pursuits, and the lawful indulgence of the natural appetites.

Intemperance, is the want of moderation or due restraint. It is any exertion of body or mind, or any indulgence of the appetites or passions, which is injurious to the person or contrary to morality; so there may be intemperance in study or in labor, in eating or drinking, or in any other gratification.

But to be more particular in defining these terms, we would say that, Temperance consists in the moderate use of things useful, and total abstinence from those which are pernicious. Intemperance, then, is the moderate use of that which is hurtful,—together with the immoderate use of that which is necessary and useful. If a correct definition of these terms has been given, then we are prepared to say, that there is no small degree of Intemperance in our churches, and in all christendom. And this Intemperance is not only in temporal drinking, but in many other things,—such as the intemperate and filthy use of tobacco; yea, and in living generally. If we should be temperate in all things, then we are of the opinion that Intemperance is the crying sin of the present age. But, as our report is mainly upon the intemperate use of spirituous liquors, we notice more particularly that feature of the subject. And we here take the ground that now, all indulgence in drinking ardent spirits, with or without intoxication, is intemperance. We contend that, under existing circumstances, what is called the moderate use of spirituous liquors is Intemperance, and the immoderate use of it, is drunkenness. Intemperance in the moderate use of spirituous liquors may consist of several degrees. Some use it only occasionally or once daily; this would constitute the first degree. Others use it not only occasionally, but as a general thing three times daily; this would bring a man to the third and perhaps to the highest degree of Intemperance,—for more than that per day, we think, would border on drunkenness. Six or eight drinks a day, we think, would not fall short of habitual drunkenness. To be temperate, then, in the use of spirituous liquors, we must not use them at all as a beverage.

As to the evils of Intemperance, (if we had space to name them, but they are too notorious to require it,) its ravages are awful in all parts of our land. One who has lately spoken eloquently upon this subject, says: "We have the best authority to assert that, the use of alcoholic drink has cost the United States directly, in ten years, twelve hundred millions of dollars; has burned, or otherwise destroyed, fifty millions more of property; has destroyed three hundred thousand lives; sent one hundred and fifty thousand to the States' prisons, and one hundred thousand children to the poor house; caused fifteen hundred murders, two thousand suicides, and has bequeathed to our government one million of orphan children.

Oh, that a cure for an evil like this could be found! The friends of Temperance tried many, but no one expedient,—nor all of them together has yet proved effectual. Many say it cannot be cured by moral suasion; that the liquor traffic must be stopped,—subjecting it to the same scrutiny and control that you do arsenic, prussic acid and other poisons. This would be measurably to dry up the fountain. But we think the better plan is to change the direction of the stream. We remember that Cyrus took the city of Babylon, not by drying up the fountain of the broad river Euphrates which flowed directly through the city, but by changing the direction of the stream. So if we could turn the stream of alcohol from running down men's throats, the strong fortifications of intemperance would be demolished, and temperance would be victorious. The great alcoholic river runs off, not only into the mouths and down the throats of drunkards like open sepulchers, but most welcome, glides into the houses and down the throats of thousands, who call themselves temperance men. It is here, intemperance fortifies itself, and finds refuge—it finds none in the drunkard, and but little in places of public revelry. If it had refuge no where else, it would soon be hissed from these places. Let us therefore level our artillery against the moderate or intemperate use of the article—let its common use as a drink become disreputable—let the example be regarded as totally unworthy of all respectable and good men. Put it to open shame, do this and intemperance will begin to wane and hide its deformed head, and temperance will cover and bless our happy country.

Resolved, That the friends of temperance be requested to hold frequent public meetings, deliver public addresses, and make every laudable effort to awaken public attention, and form a wholesome public sentiment in regard to this important subject.

[1] REPORT ON THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY.

The Southern Baptist Publication Society, located in Charleston, S. C., has now been in existence twelve years. In this comparatively short period, it has, as we see by a report of the financial secretary, J. J. Soon, Esq., issued an amount of publications equal to, (we give the round numbers, they are a fraction larger,) two hundred and fifty thousand volumes, or ninety-five million pages. The amount issued for the last year ending July, 1859, was twenty-nine thousand volumes, or twelve million pages. Of these amounts the new works composed eleven thousand volumes, or one million pages.

The above named volumes "in literary merit, in the spirit of piety which they breathe, in fidelity to the truth, and in mechanical executions," compare favorably with any publications North or South; and reflect great credit and honor upon the Denomination. The recent ample endowment of this society, has placed it upon a firmer basis, and given it increased facilities for extension and usefulness, causing it to present to the Church the highest prospects, and to its munificent founders, the richest reward. Your committee offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Southern Baptist Publication Society is eminently worthy of the sincere praise, fervent prayers, and liberal patronage of Southern Baptists; and that they are earnestly recommended to make enlarged efforts for the increase of the circulation of its valuable publications.
